Hancock Circuit Clerk Karen Ruhr announces she won't seek reelection

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

Hancock County Circuit Clerk Karen Ruhr has announced she will not seek reelection next year. "After over three decades in service to the citizens of Hancock County, I am announcing retirement from the office of circuit clerk," Ruhr said in a press release. "My retirement will become effective in December 2019. I have every confidence that the good people of Hancock County will elect the right person to continue the work of the circuit clerk's office."

Ruhr was first elected circuit clerk in 2007, replacing long-time clerk Pam Metzler, who retired. Ruhr began her career as a deputy clerk in 1984, "and I have seen many dramatic changes over the years," she said. "We have gone from manual records to an office and workforce using the latest technology. Today, we can offer more timely and comprehensive services to our citizens. When I became a full-time employee in the circuit clerk's office, there were only two full-time and one part-time employees. With the growth in the county population and work-load of the office, we are up to six full-time employees. The office staff is why I have stayed in this job and I am proud of the work we do and what we have accomplished together."

Ruhr said her role "has proven to be both challenging and rewarding. The recovery from Hurricane Katrina and taking the responsibility of returning to our courthouse proved to be a daunting task for me and the office. Within the walls of the courthouse building, I have been steadfast in working to expand the opportunities for my office and employees. Two recent accomplishments I am particular-

Elections set for Tuesday, Nov. 6

Hancock County voters will be headed back to the polls again next Tuesday, Nov. 26, to decide who will represent them in the U.S. Senate, U.S. House of Representatives and -- on the local level -- for circuit and chancery court judges and the Hancock County School Board.

There are two U.S. Senate races on the ballot next week. One is for the seat currently held by Sen. Roger Wicker.

Wicker is being challenged by state Rep. David Baria, a Democrat and Bay St. Louis resident; Libertarian candidate Danny Bedwell; and Reform candidate Shawn O'Hara.

The other U.S. Senate race is a special election for the seat formerly held by Sen. Thad Cochran, who stepped down earlier this year due to health reasons. Gov. Phil Bryant appointed then-Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Cindy Hyde-Smith. That election is a nonpartisan

You might say Old Town Bay St. Louis on Saturday boasted an "Embarrassment of Witches," but no one was embarrassed, there was no actual "witching" and it was all for a good cause.

More than 170 people registered for the fourth annual "Witches Walk" on Saturday -- some from as far away as Florida, Maine, Utah, Colorado and Washington state -- raising more than $1,600 for the Hancock County Food Pantry and the Bay Ratz Marching Battery.

"It was quite a fun day, I have to say," event founder Karen West said. "It's just a bunch of women who like to dress up, and apparently there's more than just me, because 170 of those girls showed up, which just blew me away."

Participants lined up at the Mockingbird Cafe on Second Street before hopping their brooms down to the Cedar Rest Cemetery for a group photo. They spent the Cemetery tour draws hundreds

Last Friday, the Hancock County Historical Society hosted its 24th annual Cemetery Tour at the Cedar Rest Cemetery in Bay St. Louis. Hancock County Historical Society Executive Director Charles Gray said the event drew more than 658 visitors this year.

"It's a little less than normal because we didn't hold it on Halloween night as usual," Gray said. "But it was a nice turnout and I was delighted."

Gray said members of the historical society started the tour years ago after the cemetery had been vandalized.

"We discussed what we could do and started a group watch," he said. "Then we decided to dress as local characters."

Gray said the benefits of the tour are three-fold. One benefit is protecting the cemetery. Second, it teaches people the history of the area's residents. Lastly, some funds raised from tour donations contribute to maintenance and repairs, Gray said.

Tour guests also enjoyed refreshments at the Lobrano House, located at 108 Cue St.

During the tour, several members of the historical

Bay man nabbed for child porn in 'Operation Trick or Treat'

BY GEOFF
BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

A Bay St. Louis man was arrested last week for alleged child exploitation as part of a state-wide sting by state Attorney General Jim Hood's Internet Crimes Against Children (ICAC) Task Force.

Colby Isaiah Johnson, 21, was charged with two counts of Exploitation of Children -- Possession of Child Pornography, as part of the task force's "Operation Trick or Treat," according to a press release from Hood's office.

Johnson was incarcerated at the Hancock County Jail, where he was still being held at press time Tuesday in lieu of a $250,000 bond on each count.

Johnson is scheduled to appear in Hancock Justice Court for an initial hearing on Nov. 27.

Several other people were swept up around the state in "Trick or Treat" between Oct. 22 and 26, including:

- Jason Covington, 48, of Stonewall, one count of Exploitation of Children -- Possession of Child Pornography.

- Samuel Black Cascio, 31, of Petal, two counts of Exploitation of Children -- Possession of Child Pornography; and one count of possession of a controlled substance, methamphetamine.

- Zachorey Taylor Compton, 22, of Gulfport, two counts Exploitation of Children -- Possession of Child Pornography.

- Gordon Hopkins, 54, of Amory, one count of Exploitation of Children -- Possession of Child Pornography.

- Shawn Crabree, 34, Southaven, one count of Child Exploitation.

- Willie Terrell Leflore, 67, Southaven, one count of Child Exploitation.

- Kenneth Wayne Jones, 25, Lucedale, one count of

Colby Isaiah Johnson

Enticement of a Child for Sexual Purposes.

Two people were also prosecuted as part of Operation Trick or Treat, Hood said, including Quincy LaBauve of Biloxi, who entered an open plea in Harrison County Circuit Court for two counts of child exploitation and one count of sexual battery of a child; and James Michael Williams, 52, who was sentenced in DeSoto County Circuit Court after an open plea to one count of child exploitation.

The Harrison County District Attorney's Office assisted in LaBauve's prosecution, Hood said.

The Hancock County Sheriff's Office and Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police department's assisted the task force during Operation Trick or Treat, Hood said.

"Parents should always be aware that no matter where you live, work or play, there are unfortunately sick people who prey on children," Hood said. "Our cybercrime team never stops working so that they can protect you and your loved ones, and last week's arrests and sentencing show they are doing just that. We couldn't do this without the help of our local, state and federal partners and I thank them for their commitment to protecting Mississippi's children."

Hood said task force members also conducted five presentations to nearly 1,000 fourth-through ninth-graders during the operation, along with mentors, teachers, parents and administrators.

Hood also encouraged families to keep safety in mind this Halloween by offering the following reminders and tips:

- Take children to familiar neighborhoods and approach only homes with outside lighting.

- Remind children of everyday safety rules, such as not getting into cars or talking to strangers, watching both ways before crossing streets, and crossing with the stop light at an intersection when they are trick-or-treating.

- Adults should always accompany small children to caution them against running into streets and across lawns or driveways. Please use sidewalks where available.

- Encourage children to wait until they get home to eat candy so that adults can inspect the goodies.

- Parents should throw away any treats that are not commercially wrapped or appear to be tampered with.

- Choose costumes with light or bright colors whenever possible, or trim a darker costume with reflective tape. Consider also having children carry a flashlight to make sure they can see the walking path and are visible to drivers.

The ‘old-times’ were fine, but I want modern medicine

These days, thanks to advances in healthcare and medical technology, children get much more doctoring before they reach school age than anyone from my generation ever did.

I was born in a hospital, but both of my younger brothers were born at home, with a midwife assisting.

After I was born, I rarely saw a doctor. However, my mother told me that when I was very young, I would follow my father all around the yard. One day, I snuck up behind my father while he was splitting wood. I got too close and he didn't hear me, and when he swung the axe back, the blunt end cracked me in the forehead, knocking me out cold.

I do remember where he hit me, and going to the doctor, because the incident left a scar for many years.

The next doctor's visit I remember was when I stuck a four-o'clock seed in my nose. The next time I recall seeing a doctor was when I was in the first grade. Dr. C.M. Shipp came to the school and vaccinated me. I think my first visit to the dentist was when I was about ten or eleven years old.

Instead of seeing a doctor in those days, most of the time your parents treated you at home with an old-time remedy.

It seems like at least twice a year, we were given cod liver oil to clean out our systems. We really dreaded that because of the taste.

We also used some type of cough syrup and aspirin and iodine for scratches, except when we stepped on a nail or something like that -- we ran around barefoot a lot. For foot injuries, we used pure turpentine. Talk about a sting! It would usually hurt worse than the actual injury.

There was an elderly lady who lived nearby who stepped on a nail and didn't treat the injury, and she died of lockjaw.

A treatment for a boil or a splinter that could not be dug out with a needle was a poultice of sugar and Octagon soap.

A midwife named Susie McCormick taught us most of those old remedies.

I still remember when I was about twelve, we tried all kinds of remedies to cure a swollen thumb, including soaking it in Epson salt, with no success.

I visited the Ruhr family, whose son had just returned home from the Navy, where he had served as a medic. He took out a small bottle of merthiolate and painted my thumb ping and the next day, the swelling was gone.

After that, we always kept a bottle of merthiolate in our house, even after I grew up and got married.

People talk fondly about the old times, but really, with the advances we've had in science and medicine, we're much better off today.

You can tell, because the average "old person" these days is much older than the "old-timers" back when I was young.

A less traveled road to the priesthood

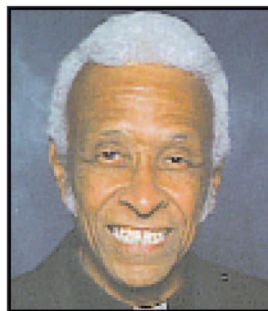

The Catholic Information Agency (ACI) in Latin America recently published an account of the life of Juan Pablo Aroztegi that depicts him as a run-of-the-mill Catholic who grew up attending Sunday Mass with his parents and continued to do so until his mid-thirties. Always assuming that he would someday marry and have a family, the thought of becoming a priest never crossed his mind. He was quite content to be working as an industrial engineer at a software company in Pamplona.

Then one day, quizzical, pointed questions from one of his agnostic friends led him to soul-searching, life-altering challenges and decisions about his future.

"Your friends know you and can intuit your decisions," he observed. "It's ironic that an agnostic friend made me question my Christian life and my vocation." After a profound reflection, he decided to enter the seminary.

Juan described his decision to enter the seminary as one of the greatest moments of freedom in his life. His inquisitive agnos-

Reflections on Life

by Fr. Jerome Ledoux, SVD

tic friend who had questioned him about his Christian life was among the first to be informed of his decision to enter the seminary. The friend answered reassuringly that he had expected it. His family was also surprised about his decision to enter the seminary.

Although most of Juan's friends were non-believers, they respected his faith and his decision. Some of them even attended his ordination. "The conversations I had with some of them to tell them of my decision was one of the most beautiful moments of my life. I felt free and I was open about who I am. We spoke about important issues we had never dealt with before."

It was no accident that most of the friends of Juan Pablo Aroztegi were agnostics, since it was normal that numerous young men his age fell into either that category or something akin to it. Apparently, Juan used the criteria of friendship to choose the men with whom he would hang out and share the quality things about family and life pursuits. It is most interesting that none of Juan's criteria for friendship with others excluded their adherence to agnosticism, atheism or secularism. His friends' interactions with him concerning his ultimate choice of vocation and religious ministry bore out the wisdom of his selecting them as the friends with whom he would journey in life. They were quality friends after all.

Aroztegi's native Spain and the rest of secularized Europe aside for a minute, the story leaves one wondering how a 35-year-old man managed to navigate his Christian life through the treacherous shoals of unbelief. One would reason that God guided him while his guardian angel worked overtime.

Juan must have winced as he was ordained into a world of many troubled priests.

Widespread instances of rogue priests' sexual crimes against children suggests that many predatory men become priests with infernal motives from the beginning. The indescribably ugly, putrefying demons from the bowels of hell in their case came out of the reputed holy of holies -- perhaps the one place where parents felt good about their child being an altar server or otherwise being active in church. Although we all walk on feet of clay, general weakness of human nature is no excuse for priests to harm children. Pedophiles must be cut at the seminary level.

"Jesus warns in Matthew 18:6, "Whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin, it would be better for him to have a great millstone hung around his neck

Knowing reality from “fake news”

A friend of mine sent me an email last year about former President Obama's daughter, Malia.

"Bet this didn't make the national news! The apple doesn't fall far from the tree in this case....but they pick up on every other word said by the Pres. and his family. No Report in the media. I wonder if the press would have reported it if one of the Trump kids were caught."

What followed was a "story" about Malia Obama being fired from her cushy internship at the Spanish embassy.

"How does an 18-year-old girl fresh out of high school land a job as an intern at the U.S. Embassy in Spain? In this case the daughter of a president was moved to the front of the line. It didn't last long, however, because just like at home, Malia has issues with staying out of trouble. She was caught, by Embassy Security -- aka the U.S. Marines -- on the roof of the building burning a doobie.

"Malia was terminated immediately, her room was cleared and she was escorted from the private areas of the embassy to the common area where she could wait to change the dates on her travel visa so she could return home. She was last seen in the lobby when a black SUV pulled up out front and she willingly got in. Looks like Daddy probably saved the day again.

"No word now on Malia's next move. She won't be starting Harvard this fall and she has no future in government, since all government jobs require drug tests. Maybe she can go to work with her benevolent father collecting huge speaking fees for destroying the country."

This emailed story was forwarded to dozens of people, many of whom commented in disgust. I know many of these people and they are well-read and intelligent.

Yet they fell for it. Who knows how many millions of people have seen this email and believe it to be true. Further, they believe the mainstream media repressed it, further eroding their confidence in legitimate news organizations.

Being a veteran of decades in the news business, I sensed a fakery. Sure enough, it didn't take long to find reports from the Washington Post and other legitimate news sources that Malia is doing just fine as a freshman at Harvard.

Snopes, a website dedicated to debunking fake news, states, "Although it was widely reposted and shared on social media as if factual, the report is entirely fictitious. As it happens, Malia Obama did work as an intern at the United States Embassy in Spain the previous summer (2016), but she was not fired from the job at that time, nor did she return to it in 2017 — so she couldn't have been fired from it then either. This year, according to mainstream press reports, Malia Obama completed a spring internship in New York City before vacationing with her parents overseas in June.

The original source of the false report, Freedom Crossroads, bills itself as a "satirical" web site dedicated to lampooning conservative politics.

No doubt Freedom Crossroads got millions of pageviews for its "satirical" piece of fake news. In doing so, they were able to get money from automated, anonymous Adworks. There is big money to be made in fake news. And zero accountability.

This trend has created a new word, "clickbait." Clickbait describes posting an outlandish headline or photo that gets people to click out of curiosity. In doing so, the website makes ad money. Real news is far more boring and a lot less lucrative.

I am reminded of the old tabloid publication call the National Enquirer. Decades ago it was displayed at just about every grocery store cashier's line. "Martians discovered," "Headless man kills wife," etc.

Most of us knew better than to read such trash and we didn't waste our money buying the National Enquirer and other such scandal sheets. But today, the internet puts fake news in front of the unsuspecting relentlessly. It is damaging our society and culture.

My colleague Charlie Smith, publisher of the Columbian-Progress, recently wrote a column about this. He wrote, "The Internet hurts more than it helps. It wastes our time. It rots our children's brains. It robs our local businesses. It puts down our defenses to allow foreign countries to meddle in our elections. It ruins families with pornography. It gives hate groups like ISIS a platform to recruit within our nation."

I have always embraced technological advances, but there is no doubt the Internet is posing substantial challenges to our culture and our society.

I am reminded of my son John who used to try to steal my smartphone from me and hide it. "It is destroying your brain," he would cry. He refused to go anywhere near a smartphone, preferring books, magazines and newspapers instead. He became obsessed with making sure anything he read was from a legitimate source.

What happens when we have an entire generation that doesn't know reality from fake news?

This is particularly discouraging because I have spent my life trying to publish legitimate, documented news. How sad to see my industry diminish and lose ground to fraudulent clickbait. It's like crying in the wind.

President Trump isn't helping when he calls what few legitimate news organizations we have left promoters of fake news. To be sure, mainstream media has its biases, but they rarely publish fake news and when they do, they quickly own up to it. There is a difference between biased news and fake news.

Political operatives are using fake news and its not just the Russians. Just like the anonymous fliers of old, political campaigns are rife with the transmission of electronic fake news.

We still have slander and liable laws, but these are practically useless in cyberspace where websites can appear and disappear without a trace. There is no accountability.

What does the future hold? I don't know. But I know that the average age of our newspapers is 125 years. That's a long time over which a huge amount of technological change has occurred. Yet we remain. We still have loyal readers and advertisers. We still make a profit.

What makes newspapers endure is not our mode of transmission but the fact that we are dedicated to the truth and fairness. I pray readers will see through the idiocy of clickbait and embrace dedicated journalism with renewed appreciation in the coming years.

Hancock Hawks & St. Stanislaus Rocks claim wins; Bordelon & Ladner earn Player of the Week honors

SSC linebacker Lee Negrotto (#6) wraps up Pass Christian quarterback Kameron White with pressure in the Rocks' 24-7 victory on Friday night. Negrotto tallied six tackles including a sack and two quarterback hurries.

The area high school gridiron regular season has come to a close for Class 4A while Class 6A has one regular season week left. The Bay High Tigers and the Pass Christian Pirates both completed their 2018 campaigns this past Friday evening while St. Stanislaus hosts a first round playoff game and Hancock will end their 2018 season this Friday evening.

The Bay High Tigers (1-9, 1-4) had a shot at the Class 4A playoffs with a win against Moss Point this past Friday evening at Joe D. McCullough Stadium/Tank Williams Field. And, for a large part of the game, Bay High looked as though they were about to punch their ticket. However, Moss Point came back in the fourth quarter and squashed any hope for an extra week of hitting beating Bay High 29-19.

In the game, Josh Peters had his best game of the year passing as he threw for 226 yards on 14-of-28 passing with a touchdown.

Kaleb Leavens had three receptions for 70 yards and a touchdown while Dominic Anderson finished the game with 16 carries for 123 yards. Maxwell Lewis tallied three receptions for 71 yards and four carries for nine yards and a touchdown.

The Pass Christian Pirates (1-9, 0-5) dropped their final game of the season last Friday 'between the walls' at the Brother Phillip Memorial Athletic Complex 24-7 to the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws.

It was also the final game coached by Casey Wittmann for Pass Christian as the Pirate mentor for the last decade submitted his resignation as the head football coach on Monday. The paper will have a release on his resignation in Saturday's edition.

In the game, Damonta May tallied 91 yards rushing and a touchdown on four carries all coming in the second half.

It was a season that never seemed to get started for Pass Christian as the team suffered several key injuries early on the offensive line while their third-year quarterback Dustin Allison also suffered multiple concussions.

The Rocks (5-5, 4-1) evened their overall record with the win over Pass Christian and increased their lead in the series to 24-15-3.

The Rocks were paced by Brandon Bordelon who rushed for 249 yards and three touchdowns on 27 touches. Max Favre threw for 76 yards on 10-for-20 passing and Dallas Payne caught four passes for 47 yards. On defense, SSC was led by Trustin Northington and Blake Bilich with 11 tackles each followed by Nate McCormick with seven stops and William Weber with six tackles, two tackles for loss and two pass break ups. Trace Rhodes picked off a pass and returned it 50 yards to set up the Rocks' first score.

This Friday SSC will host Northeast Lauderdale (6-4, 3-2) 'between the walls' in a first round matchup in the Class 4A state playoffs. This will be the first meeting between the two schools.

The Trojans have a shifty quarterback in Kam Hulin who has thrown for 981 yards and 11 TDs with five interceptions and rushed for 691 yards and six scores on 91 carries. Michael McClinton has tallied 1,034 yards rushing and 14 touchdowns on 182 touches.

On the receiving end of Hulin's aeriels are Chris Hardy who has 37 catches for 466 yards and five scores followed by Jaquarrious Barron with 20 receptions for 292 yards and four touchdowns.

On defense, they are paced by Shaun Cosby with 100 tackles followed by Tyler Ziller with 48 stops. Branderrick Thomas has three picks and 10 passes defended in the backfield.

The Rocks will counter with Bordelon who has 58 carries for 470 yards in three games with six scores and Max Favre who has thrown for 915 yards and six touchdowns on 64-of-141 passing. Payne has caught 37 passes for 614 yards and three touchdowns.

On defense, the Rocks are led by Northington with 81 stops followed by Lee Negrotto with 79 tackles including 12 tackles for loss and Rhodes with 73 tackles and three interceptions.

The Hancock Hawks (3-7, 1-5) delivered a blow to Biloxi's playoff hopes with a 21-14 victory on the road against the Indians.

Hancock jumped ahead of Biloxi 13-0 early before the Indians surged to take a 14-13 lead into the fourth quarter. Hancock scored eight in the final game to claim the win.

Caleb Garcia threw for 101 yards and a touchdown on 3-for-6 passing. Payton Miller had one reception for 59 yards and a score while Blake Comeaux rushed for 82 yards and 19 touches. Jordan Foushee had 71 yards rushing and a score while Trenton Ladner added 21 yards and a score.

Ladner led the defense with 16 tackles followed by Colby McGough with seven stops.

This week the Hawks return home to host Pascagoula for Senior Night. Last week, Pascagoula fell to St. Martin 41-0.

The Offensive Player of the Week for Week #11 is SSC running back Brandon Bordelon who rushed 27 times for 249 yards and three scores in the Rocks' 24-7 win over the Pass Christian Pirates.

The Defensive Player of the Week for Week #11 is Hancock linebacker Trenton Ladner who tallied 16 stops in the Hawks' 21-14 win over Biloxi.

Both games are slated for a 7pm kickoff. See you at the game!

DYNASTY! - OLA tops Resurrection for seventh state volleyball title in a row, 13th title overall

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

This sportswriter has never met an athlete, himself included, that ever tires of winning. In fact, does anyone ever tire of winning?

I believe that the answer to that question is a very simple, but resounding, 'No!' And, I rest my case with the Our Lady Academy Crescents volleyball team which is fresh off of their seventh consecutive and 13th overall volleyball state championship which they claimed at The Gillom Sports Center on the campus of The University of Mississippi in Oxford on Saturday with a 3-0 sweep of Resurrection High School. The title match also marked the third consecutive year that the two teams have met for the title.

In the championship game, OLA left little to the imagination as they dominated from start to finish eliminating Resurrection 25-19, 25-15 and 25-16.

Rebecca Walk, a South Alabama commit, led the way 20 kills, eight blocks, 14 serve receptions and four digs while Lizzie Mirandy stepped up to deliver 10 kills, 13 digs, 12 serve receptions, six points and two aces.

Ashley Bulot added 33 assists, 11 points, five digs and three aces while Camille Cottone contributed nine points, two aces and four digs. Margaret Spencer White tallied four kills, four digs and one block. Kate Montjoy delivered 12 serve receptions and 11 digs while Alma Hearin recorded seven points, eight digs and two aces.

The victory gives OLA a final 2018 record of 25 wins against 16 losses.

Walk led the squad with 639 and a kill percentage of 67.2% and a hit percentage of 59.9%. Mirandy added 175 kills followed by Spencer White with 160 and Cottone with 148.

Hearin ended the year with 102 aces to lead the team while Bulot led the squad in points with 172. Spencer White added 92 aces followed by Bulot with 63. Hearin tallied 158 points followed by Spencer White with 155 and Walk with 110.

Walk led the squad in blocks with 79 and was third with 132 digs. Mirandy paced the team with 179 digs followed by Hearin with 134.

Bulot tallied 880 assists during the season followed by Cottone with 57 and Walk with 52.

Walk led the team in serve receptions with 474 followed by Mirandy with 285 and Montjoy with 255.

Walk is ranked #28 in the nation with 639 kills and sits #2 overall in hitting percentage at 59.9%.

OLA head coach Mike Meyers commented, "We had a great win Saturday in the finals against a very good team! I thought each of our girls played like champions. The players set a goal before the season to reach and win the state championship. We played a very challenging schedule made up of larger schools, and this year we struggled at times to compete with them. However, they kept their goal in sight and battled through the tough times, especially in the semi final match. I am very proud of the grit and determination these girls showed to end the season with a state championship. They are a wonderful group of young ladies, on and off the court. It was a pleasure to coach them."

The Crescents struggled in their semi-final match against St. Andrew's Episcopal High School and were forced to go five games for the win. Perhaps it was a feat the team needed but, regardless, it simply proved that the state finals were the objective of this team no matter how they got there.

In the past, there have been OLA teams that have had impeccable records that cannot be questioned. But, this team had massive hur-next few hours roaming around Old Town, cruising by Lulu's, before winding up at Cuz's Old Town Oyster Bar for the "Dance Around the Cauldron" and awards ceremony.

West said the first Witches Walk just included herself and a few of her friends.

"My friends from Jackson all came down and we celebrated one their birthdays -- it's on (October) 30th. We all dressed up like witches and we had so much fun, so we did it again the next year.

"Then Mickey Evans and Barb Fillingame got involved and we added hopping onto the trolley, and that was a lot of fun, but all those things changed and I kind of took over.

This year, I got Yuki (Northington) and Ning Wiebmar involved, and they kind of brought in the Old Town Merchants Association."

Once that happened, the event grew huge, she said.

"Everybody was clamoring to do it again next year," West said. "Next year's going to be bigger and better."

dles to overcome losing five starters including the MaxPreps National Player of the Year Emma Funk who now plays at Trinity University in Texas.

This team was forced to find chemistry and learn to play with each other in a short time. They did it.

This team was forced to dig out of holes that an OLA team had never been in before. They did it. This team had to find leaders among players who had never been asked to lead before. They did it.

Despite all this team had to find answers to, the result is still the same. This team claimed the Division 8-Class I title for the 19th consecutive year (2000-18) and the Class I state championship for the seventh consecutive year and 13th overall (2002-03, 2006-09, 2012-18).

OLA has played in 16 state final matches since 2001 (2001-03, 2006-18) and they show no sign of slowing down.

The Crescents are Mississippi's most successful volleyball program ever and it is not even close. When some fan wants to discuss dynasty, I will gladly answer with Our Lady Academy volleyball. Congratulations to OLA volleyball on winning yet another state title. May you never tire of winning, as nobody remembers who comes in second.

2018 Class I state champion Our Lady Academy Crescents.

'I MUSTACHE YOU TO READ WITH ME' AUTHOR VISITS NORTH BAY ELEMENTARY

BY OLIVER LASSITER
SEA COAST ECHO®
JUNIOR REPORTER

Last Friday, Andrea Vilemont Moreau came to North Bay Elementary to read her book, "I Mustache You to Read With Me." She has two girls and one boy, who like to play music. She also has two dogs. Moreau was also a teacher and she taught high school. After that, she became a librarian for 18 years. Moreau said she loves reading, writing, and language. Moreau's book is about "puns, reading, and imagination". The book is about a boy named Henry who likes to read books, but his parents are too busy to read a book with him. Henry uses funny puns to make his parents to read with him. "Families reading together is so important," Moreau said. Moreau said she used figurative language. "Figurative language is used when a writer uses words or expressions in a way that is different from the literal interpretation of the words," Moreau said. A pun is a type of figurative language, she said. She read her book to students. After that, she dressed students up as characters from the book. Moreau said she wrote the book in a couple of months. She said she loves mustaches, which also inspired her to write this book. She said it took her about five years to publish. Moreau said she wants to write more books. Moreau said she is inspired by Mississippi writer Eudora Welty. "She wrote good short stories about life and Mississippi in the time of Civil Rights," Moreau said. Last school year, DeLisle Elementary principal Mandy Lacy challenged her staff to “Strive for 25” additional school accountability points. Not only did they rise to the challenge, they far surpassed it by skyrocketing 72 points above the previous year’s score earning the school a prestigious A rating. “I can’t say enough good things about the instruction that took place last year along with the accountability level to which we held our students,” remarked Lacy. In recognition of the staff’s steadfast commitment to excellence, Principal Lacy and Assistant Principal Kristen Wheat made surprise visits to each classroom. Blasting the song “Celebration”, Lacy and Wheat offered each staff member delicious snacks and presented
